Your best sellers get the attention. Milo watches the rest.

Milo connects your systems, keeps the numbers live and answers in plain English. Nobody waits for a report, and the same question gets the same answer whoever asks it.

Shopify / Stock management / Orvis Rewards / Klaviyo / The rest of your app stack

Ready for the Monday trade call

Milo, in Teams, Slack or WhatsApp 07:30

Quietly moving up: Men's Ultralight Wader
Up 18% over four weeks, though only 34th in the range. Eleven days of stock left.

Quietly slipping: Women's PRO Wader
Down three weeks running. Still mid-table, so nothing has flagged it.

Orvis Rewards: 212 vouchers redeemed
By 140 members, who spend 31% more than non-members. Details attached.

Illustrative figures, not your data.

What the first month proves

The middle of the range
Which lines are trending up or down, every week, without anyone building it.

Orvis Rewards
Who redeems, what they are worth, and whether the scheme pays for itself.

Black Friday to Christmas
Live sales and stock through the peak, and what each promotion earned.

The test: by the end of the month, Milo has saved or found at least what it costs.

Likely questions

The group already has a tool for this.	This is one month on Orvis UK's own systems. Nothing changes at group, and you end up with real results to compare.
Will it connect to our apps?	Send us the list and we'll confirm before you commit. If one is missing, our engineer builds the connection, usually within a day.
Is customer data safe?	EU servers in Frankfurt, ISO 27001, SOC 2 and GDPR. Your data never trains AI, and that's in the contract. Personal fields can be hidden entirely. trust.milo.ai
Who else uses it?	ICON Eyewear runs its webshops, marketplaces, logistics and finance data through Milo. Also Two Tribes and Kellogg's.

£1,500

for the month, then about £1,500 a month

The proof of concept
We connect your data from an online kick-off, then come to you in Hampshire for a day. An engineer and a customer success lead stay with you. After the month, carry on or stop.

Timing
A yes after your board meeting means you're live for Black Friday on 27 November, with your own numbers in time for Christmas.

Tom Pickett · tom@milo.ai · milo.ai