

A PROPOSAL FOR ASPECTA GROUP

THREE HOUSES.

One clear view.

Fashion Eyewear, Pretavoir and Maverick & Wolf each keep their own voice and their own customer. Their numbers shouldn't live apart. Milo connects every system the group runs and answers questions about it in plain English, in seconds, with dashboards that keep themselves up to date.

ALL THREE HOUSES

ASK

Which frames are we selling on more than one site, and where are we undercutting ourselves?

212 frames are listed on two or more houses. On 38 of them the price gap is over £20, and the cheaper listing takes 81% of the orders.

FRAME	FASHION EYEWEAR	PRETAVOIR	MAVERICK & WOLF	GAP
Acetate round, tortoiseshell	£164	£189	£139	£50
Pilot sunglass, gold	£128	£162	£149	£34
Cat-eye optical, black	£205	—	£179	£26
Square titanium, gunmetal	£231	£254	£254	£23

The overlap costs the group an estimated £11,400 of margin a month, almost all of it on frames where two houses buy from the same supplier.

I can draft a price alignment list for the 38 frames, ranked by margin at stake.

DRAFT LIST

NOT NOW

FASHION EYEWEAR What did each designer house earn us last month, after lenses and returns? Margin by brand, net of lens costs, remakes and refunds.	PRETAVOIR Which sunglasses sell out before June at the current run rate? A reorder list for this week, with supplier lead times.	MAVERICK & WOLF Which campaigns bring in first-time prescription buyers? Cost per new customer by channel, and who came back.

02 · PROOF

ICON Eyewear runs on Milo

“Questions that would normally require multiple teams and significant time are now answered quickly and with solid justification.”

MARCEL DE BRESSER, BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT, ICON EYEWEAR

A multi-brand eyewear business selling through webshops and marketplaces, much like Aspecta. Milo joined up their webshops, ERP, fulfilment, finance and marketing, and replaced cross-team reporting with plain English answers.

03 · TRUST

Your data stays yours

Milo works only on Aspecta's data. Numbers are calculated by queries against your own systems, not guessed by a language model, so the same question gets the same answer every time. Your data is never used to train models.
