PROPOSAL FOR AB WORLD FOODS

Why is Blue Dragon paste down in Tesco? Ask Milo, and get the reason in one answer.

Over 200 lines in Tesco, promoted on and off every few weeks. Milo joins the retailer data to your own, explains what moved the numbers, and reviews every promotion the week it ends.

Tesco EPOS · Dunnhumby · Promotions tracker · Dynamics 365 · Internal sales · Supply chain · Packs, automated

Three questions your team asks every week

Milo · in Teams · AB World Foods commercial — Answered in 6.2s

Why is Blue Dragon paste down? | Which promotions paid back? | Is the forecast tracking EPOS?

YOU Why is Blue Dragon paste down year on year in Tesco?

Down 10.4% over 12 weeks. Three quarters of it is two short deliveries and a competitor's deeper promotion.

Tesco EPOS, last 12 weeks vs the same weeks last year

Same 12 weeks last year		£418,600
Short deliveries, wk 31 and 34	■■■■■■■■■■	-£19,800
Competitor at ⅓ off for six weeks	■■■■■■■	-£12,400
One fewer promotion slot	■■■■■	-£9,100
Green curry paste out of 140 stores	■■■	-£6,300
Shelf price up 10p	■	+£4,000
Last 12 weeks		£375,000

HOW MILO GOT THIS

- ✓ Deliveries from Dynamics 365, matched to the weeks Tesco ran short.
- ✓ Competitor price and depth from Dunnhumby.
- ✓ Promotion slots from your tracker, both years.
- ✓ Calculated on the full data, never estimated by the AI.

Flag cover under five days to supply chain | Draft a note for the Tesco buyer | Add to Monday review

Illustrative figures for this proposal. With your data connected, these answers run on your real Tesco and internal numbers.

What you'll want to know

Can't Copilot agents do this?

Copilot is a small part of this, and it breaks on the maths behind 200 lines of weekly EPOS. It won't join Dunnhumby, your tracker and supply chain into one model, review every promotion, build dashboards or warn you before a line runs out. Milo does all of it, in Teams.

Will ABF's IT and AI team sign it off?

Hosted in the EU, ISO 27001 and SOC 2, penetration tested, read only, never used to train a model. Each person sees only what their role allows. We walk your AI team through it before anything connects.

One month, one retailer, one team

Week 1	Connected Dynamics 365, the promotions tracker and your sales app, plus Tesco EPOS and Dunnhumby through your own logins, under NDA.	Our engineer does it Nothing changes in Dynamics 365.
Week 2	Every promotion reviewed Uplift, margin after funding and the dip afterwards, for every promotion in the history, on definitions agreed with you first.	Built with you Your named engineer and account manager.
Week 3	The why, and the forecast Deliveries and forecast joined in. Milo explains what moved each line, tracks EPOS against forecast, and sends alerts in Teams when cover runs low.	Both of us, with you Ready for your weekly supply chain review.
Week 4	Share it, then decide The weekly and monthly reports running on their own. Show them to your heads of department and the ABF AI team, then keep going or walk away.	Your call No obligation to carry on.

More people, or Milo?

ANOTHER PROMOTIONS ANALYST

£50,000 a year, with on-costs

Months to hire and train. Reviews the few promotions there's time for, and builds the packs by hand.

MILO

£3,000 to prove it in a month

Every promotion reviewed the week it ends, the packs built for you, and the team you have spends its time deciding.

After the month you'll have the evidence: hours saved on the weekly and monthly packs, the promotions that lost money with the figure, and how far forecast drifted from Tesco EPOS.

Food and drink businesses already on Milo

Kellogg's
Tracks trade spend, promotion ROI and margin across hundreds of SKUs. Spotted a Coco Pops shortage in the Middle East that nobody had seen.

Two Tribes
A London brewery. Seven systems connected in two weeks, with no data team. Their Tesco analyser covers all 831 stores.

A UK pub group
Tequila Thursday looked like it wasn't working. Milo showed spend on everything else rose those nights, so the promotion stayed.

What it costs

PROOF OF CONCEPT

£3,000 one month

Everything on this page, with as many people as you want using it.

INCLUDED

- A named engineer and account manager throughout
- As many working sessions as you need
- No changes to Dynamics 365 or your back office
- Walk away after the month and we disconnect everything

Start this month and your 2027 Tesco promotion plan is built on every promotion you've run.

Tom Pickett · tom@milo.ai · milo.ai